Distribution channels for Mudavadi Tank.

Summary of discussion.—The repair of the Mudavadi Tank has been completed at an outlay of Rs. 44,000, but no irrigation channels have yet been laid out, nor an aqueduct constructed across the Burra Kayala stream, which circumstance has prevented much land from being brought under wet cultivation. These works should be expedited.

Dewan's reply.—Will be attended to in the P. W. D. The project is stated to be under preparation and awaiting execution of mutchalikas by raiyats and Inamdars concerned for payment of an acreage contribution.

Subject No. 290.

Civil Court current records.

Summary of discussion.—The records of cases disposed of by Civil Courts are at present transmitted to the Central Records. This practice causes much inconvenience to the parties. It is therefore suggested that the records may be ordered to be retained in the respective Courts for a period of three or five years.

Dewan's reply.—The records are kept in the Local Courts till appeal time expires, and after that, they can be had on application to the local Court, which will obtain them for parties requiring them.

Subject No. 291.

Assessed dry land for fuel plantations.

Summary of discussion.—The existing orders provide for the grant of unassessed waste lands on twenty years' Kaul for planting trees, but such land is not available in several villages. The raiyats wish to plant trees on assessed dry land lying unoccupied. Such land should be granted free of assessment for ten years, and subject thereafter to the payment of full assessment.

Dewan's reply.—No general rule can be laid down. You can take the land on full assessment, or even on a progressive Kaul for two or three years. Apply in individual cases.

Subject No. 292.

Octroi on grains for Kolar Town.

Summary of discussion.—An Octroi duty of two annas per cart-load should be levied on grains, &c., brought into the town of Kolar for sale, to make up for the loss occasioned by the abolition of the tax that used to be collected on agricul-
